Food Safety and Quality Policy Statement

Jones-Hamilton Co. is committed to manufacturing products in compliance with all statutory and regulatory authorities, as well as meeting internal and customer food safety and quality requirements.

It is also Jones Hamilton Co.'s commitment to produce food products that protect consumers, resulting in zero food safety related customer complaints and zero recalls.

Jones-Hamilton Co. is committed that employees have appropriate competencies related to food safety and quality and will maintain certification and compliance to the current FSSC 22000 standard for the manufacture of sodium bisulfate for the food and pet food industries.

The effectiveness of the Food Safety and Quality Management System will continually improve by utilizing measurable goals that are determined and reviewed by management.

Jones-Hamilton Co. will continually communicate internally, as well as externally with suppliers, contractors, customers, consumers, statutory and regulatory authorities, and any other organizations affected by our food safety and quality system.

Kim Sosko
Chief Administration Officer